

LOYAL LEGION'S ANNIVERSARY

Meeting, Reception and Banquet
Tuesday Evening.

Colonel J. T. Dickman of the Second United States Cavalry to Head the Vermont Commandery during the Next Year.

The 25th annual meeting of the Vermont Commandery, Military Order of the Loyal Legion, was held in this city Tuesday evening, followed by a reception at the Van Ness house, and an anniversary banquet in the main dining room of the same hotel.

At the business meeting John Rountree Wilson of Worcester, who served during the Civil War in the 11th Vermont Volunteers, was elected to membership as an original companion of the first class. RECEPTION AND BANQUET.

In the reception line at the informal reception which followed the business meeting were Colonel and Mrs. Dickman, General Horatio C. King of Brooklyn, N. Y., Mrs. Theodore Peck, Alderman and Mrs. M. B. Hanson, President and Mrs. Guy B. Benton, President and Mrs. Ira L. Reeves of Northfield, and Judge and Mrs. C. N. Ward of New York. The guests, who included a number of business, professional and social friends from Fort Ethan Allen as well as members of the commandery and their wives, were presented by Gen. T. S. Peck.

At 8:30 o'clock the company, to the number of 75, found seats in the main dining room for the anniversary banquet. The United States flag was much in evidence and formed the basis of the decorations. At the rear of the banquet table was the commandery banner, with flags on either side of it; a large national flag and the regulation State flag had places in the center of the room and smaller flags were attached to pillars on the sides. Between the tables were palms and bay trees. Colonel Dickman presided and others in his name were Mrs. Dickman, General King, Miss Theodore Peck, President and Mrs. Benton, Gen. E. P. Jocelyn, the Rev. and Mrs. L. C. Smart, Colonel and Mrs. E. J. Booth, Col. H. S. Foster, U. S. A., Judge and Mrs. Harold H. Noble, Alderman and Mrs. R. L. Hanson, President and Mrs. Weaver, Gen. C. E. Miller, U. S. A., and Mrs. Miller, Mayor W. C. Rivers, U. S. A., and Mayor H. A. Leonausner, U. S. A.

The committee of arrangements for the reception and banquet consisted of Commanders G. S. Howe, C. L. Woodbury, J. T. Stoenes, T. B. Hanna, H. S. Howard, M. L. Powell and H. R. Kingsland.

THE SPEECHES.

Shortly before ten o'clock, after an appetizing meal had been thoroughly discussed, the official program began. General King introduced General King, who was the principal speaker of the evening.

General King proved during his talk to be a royal entertainer and besides giving a very instructive recital of certain of the battles of the Civil War he had in stock of stories which appeared to be unlimited. He told of the death of the friends he had made in Burlington on the other two visits he made to this city, both visits being to attend the meetings of the Society of the Army of the Potomac held here in 1891 and 1896. He recalled friends he had made here while on those visits, speaking of General Stannard, General Wells, Senator Proctor, Colonel L. E. H. Grant, Major H. C. Clark, Colonel Heman W. Allen, General Ripley and E. H. Ripley, Colonel Benedict, Lieutenant Hooker and numerous others, all of whom have passed on to the great beyond.

The current events in the war which he was speaking of, said General King, were not episodes of occurrences of the manner of warfare of the Civil War days. Present modes of warfare do not appear square, when an aeroplane drops a bomb on an unsuspecting city, or fighting is waged by means of liquid fire or poisonous gases. These methods do not compare favorably with the battles of the days gone by, when men lined up front to front and took the life of the battle lines.

General King traced his career through the Civil War after the time he joined the army on its raid through the Shenandoah Valley to the time of Lee's surrender. In speaking of that great man's character which was not generally known, but which helped him to stand the mantle of war, heavier than any which ever fell on to the shoulders of a president of the United States, and that was his ability to throw aside the weighty matters of State and to plunge into and read some amusing piece of literature or apt story, after which he would go back to his work with renewed tenacity. The following poem, entitled, "There's Life in the Old Man Yet," written by General King, was received with enthusiasm when read by him:

Who says that I am an ailing old?
Who blames my blooming youth?
It's many a year fore I should see
My mansion in the skies;
What if I am a Veteran
And did my best, you bet,
You may as well just understand
There's life in the old man yet.

The almanac—oh, cut that out,
It keeps the date all right,
But age don't count by years, you know.

Not by a nameless sight;
And when you fellows size me up
And take account, you bet,
You'll find I'm without dissent,
There's life in the old man yet.

What's fifty years? Why bless your soul,
It seems but yesterday
When we were tramping down the sawdust—

Virginia's sacred clay,
How strange it is the Powers that be
Can now so quick forget
The men who saved the Union;
There's life in the old man yet.

Attention squad! Halt! Steady there!
Press back men, on the right;
Squad, order arms, eyes front! Sound off!

At 't's a noble sight;
And when the country needs these men

There's life in the old man yet,
For we don't dim their loyal fire—
There's life in the old man yet.

HORATIO C. KING.

January, 1914.
Colonel Dickman then called upon General T. S. Peck, who gave a brief resume of the plans for the annual meeting of the Society of the Army of the Potomac which will be held in this city July 13 and 14. These plans are outlined elsewhere in this week's Free Press.

Judge Augustus N. Hand of the United States court, when called upon, spoke of the cordiality with which he has always been received in Burlington. Judge Hand stated that he was always impressed with the effect of any military gathering on the civilian. The army teaches the value of discipline. Whatever our views may be on the attitude of the Germans in the present war, the German nation commands our respect for the discipline which it has shown. We must learn and have yet to learn the value of discipline, the value of experts and of people who know.

President Benton of the University of Vermont, in a few brief remarks, paid tribute to General King and spoke of the privilege of coming in contact with the officers and men of the army to whom the later generations are indebted and extended congratulations to Burlington that this city has the honor of entertaining the men of the Society of the Army of the Potomac the coming July.

President Reeves of Norwich University spoke of his pleasure at hearing Judge Hand talk on discipline. Of all disciplines, the military is the most exacting, and the most exacting is the military training of officers individually. While we do not believe in war, we do believe in its necessity at times, and if we look over the officers of the army and the men who have passed through a war we must come to the conclusion that they have not lost their individuality.

Colonel Reeves said he was always ready to talk about the history of the oldest military institution in the country, with the exception of West Point. A record was broken in the history of the universities of the country when it was found that the enrollment had increased the second semester over the first. This, Colonel Reeves said, was due to the fact that people are realizing the need of military training. Norwich being now conducted the same as in any army post.

MEDALS PRESENTED.

A very pleasing part of the program of the evening was the presentation of medals of the third brigade, third division, first army corps to Colonel D. Williams and Charles E. Beach, two veteran officers of the commandery. The presentation speech was made by General Crosby.

General Crosby said that the effect of life-long friends and warm admirers of the two comrades. In making the presentation General Miller spoke of the stirring times for the nation now at war and the anxious time of this country, now at peace with all nations, but with great uncertainty as to how long this situation will continue.

The inscription on the badges given to Colonel Williams and Mr. Beach follows:

Col. Carlos D. Williams, A. D. C., 1st Lieut. Co. F, 12th Vt. Inf., 3rd Brig., 2nd Div., 1st Army Corps.

The meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

ONE KIDNEY ANYWAY.

There is a certain public man in Glasgow who is noted for two things—a quick wit and pride in his Celtic origin. He was walking down Southchapel street one fine evening with an Englishman, when the latter, looking at the sky, remarked, "How bright Orion is to-night!" "A-c-r-h!" replied the Glaswegian; "so that is O'Ryan, is it? Well, thank the Lord there's one Irishman in heaven, anyhow!"—Rochester Times.

HOW IT HAPPENED.

"Strange, one of your twins is blonde and the other is a brunette."
"Well, we never could afford a maid, I washed one child and my husband washed the other, and that one grew up dark."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

ARMY OF THE POTOMAC

Annual Meeting of Society in Burlington July 13 and 14.

Details Arranged at Meeting of Officers Tuesday—Public Exercises, Banquet and Honorary among the Features.

Details of the 11th annual meeting of the Society of the Army of the Potomac, which will be held in Burlington on July 13 and 14, were discussed by General Horatio C. King, secretary of the society, and a committee of Burlington officials, consisting of Mayor A. S. Drew, Roy R. Lamson, president of the board of aldermen, Henry H. Hazen, president of the Merchants' association, James P. Taylor, secretary of the Merchants' association, D. A. Loomis, manager of the Champlain Transportation company, and Gen. T. S. Peck, at a meeting held Tuesday morning at the rooms of the Merchants' association. The business meeting of the corps and Society of the Army of the Potomac will be held during the forenoon of July 13 at the city hall, and the public exercises will be held in the afternoon at the College Street Church. At these exercises there will be an address of welcome by Governor Charles W. Gates on the part of the State and a welcome on the part of the city by Mayor A. S. Drew. These will be presided over by Colonel Andrew Cowan of Louisville, the president of the society. The oration of the day will be made by President Guy Potter Benton and Miss Theodore Peck will be the poet. A suitable musical program will be arranged. Following the exercises the guests will be taken on automobile rides about the city, and Col. Joseph T. Dickman, commanding officer of the 1st Cavalry, expects to tender the courtesy of a review of the regiment to Governor Charles W. Gates and other distinguished men who are expected to be present at this time. The suggestion of General King that all veterans of the Civil War and their families be invited to attend the reunion, whether they are members of the society or not, met with the hearty approval of the other consultants. A banquet will be held at the Van Ness house on the evening of July 14, under the auspices of the Society of the Army of the Potomac.

The Champlain Transportation company will carry the guests on a lake excursion July 11, on the steamer Champlain. The day will be devoted to the morning session on the lake, passing the spot where the battle of Plattsburgh was fought in the war of 1812 and visits to the scenes of other historic deeds. In connection with the reunion a meeting of the Media of Home society will be held, which will be presided over by Gen. J. M. Schoenberger of Pittsburgh.

General King, with Gen. Crosby, P. Miller, motorist Tuesday, to Fort Ethan Allen, where he was the guest of Col. Joseph T. Dickman, and was escorted about the post by Capt. E. L. Ping and Lieut. R. M. Beck. While at the fort General King made a call upon his cousin, Captain and Mrs. William R. Smedley, Jr.

NEW FISH HATCHERY.

Perch for the Millon to Be Turned Out on Steamboat Dock.

Work is now well under way on Burlington's new fish hatchery, which is to be located on the wharf of the Champlain Transportation company through the courtesy of D. A. Loomis, general manager of that company. The apparatus for the hatchery arrived from Swanton on a government boat Monday and the men will arrive Friday. The fish hatchery, which will be under both government and State control, will be erected by H. N. Rowley, fish and game warden for Chittenden county. The shelter will be made of canvas over a wooden frame. On the top will be arranged a large storage tank into which the water will be pumped from the lake by two pumps. These pumps will be worked by electric motor. There will be two tanks which will hold 129 jars. Each jar will hold three gallons of water and four quarts of pike perch spawn, there being about 15,000 eggs to the quart. The jars will be arranged in four rows and the water pumped to the storage tank on the top will flow through all jars, the connection being by pipes. The water to run into the lake again. About 95 gallons of water will be used each minute. Once the eggs have been placed in the jars, water will be kept running constantly and four men employed in three shifts of eight hours each will be employed to care for the hatchery.

When the jars are filled with water, they will be put under canvas and kept there for them to hatch out. After the hatchery is in operation it is the desire of those in charge that all who are interested make a visit to obtain an idea of how the work is done. The Burlington hatchery will also be used to hatch out several million of yellow perch eggs. There are at present being hatched at the government hatchery at St. Johnsbury about 38,000,000 pike perch and about 70,000,000 yellow perch. The local hatchery will be under the management of John W. Titcomb, State fish and game commissioner, and O. H. Dinsmore of the government hatchery at St. Johnsbury.

BANK CASE RESUMED.

Examiner's Report to Comptroller Produced, Notwithstanding Lateral's Objections.

United States court for the district of Vermont reconvened at two o'clock Monday afternoon at the federal building in this city after a recess from 11:30 o'clock Saturday morning. James H. Keller, national bank inspector, who was on the stand when court adjourned Saturday, resumed his testimony under the cross-examination of Clark C. Fitzgibbon, president of the Vermont National Bank of Burlington.

Mr. Keller, on Saturday testified that he had made a written report of his findings at the bank and had sent it to his chief, the comptroller of the currency. Judge A. N. Hand, before whom the case is being heard, ordered Mr. Keller to have the report with him for cross-examination Monday. Before court reconvened Monday Judge Hand received from the comptroller a telegram asking him not to order the report read. Judge Hand, however, directed the witness to produce the report, the government having used Mr. Keller as a witness to supply testimony for the government. As long as he was used he must be subjected to cross-examination at the hands of the attorneys for the defendant as there should be no conduct on his part in the course of his official duties which could not be inquired into.

When the report was produced the witness testified as to its truth at the time it was made. In the report it was given as the opinion of the bank examiner that the bank was solvent but no claim had been made by the government that the bank was insolvent, the indictment being that misleading entries had been made in the bank's books. The report also gave the opinion that the management was safe and conservative and that the books were properly kept. Mr. Keller testified that he audited the cashier's checks at that examination and that he at that time supposed the figures to be correct. He gave it as part of his testimony yesterday, however, that those connected with the bank "put me over" on him. When asked if he meant to charge that the bank people tried to deceive him he answered "they must have."

In cross-examination it appeared that Mr. Keller visited the banks when they were not expecting him so that he would get the regular running of the institutions rather than the polished entries which might prevail if the officials knew when he was coming. His delay was not great on account of the cashier and teller not being able to get into the vaults.

When the bank was examined on March 29, 1914, it had resources amounting to $2,091,758.14 and the real strength, after paying all liabilities, according to the books, was $623,151.87. The capital was $200,000. In regard to the report of September it was testified by the witness that the bank had a reserve of $182,081.84 and it was legally required to have a reserve of 15 per cent of the deposits, which would amount to about $150,000. The government is claiming that the reserve was low on but one day, October 31.

COUNTY SUNDAY SCHOOLS.

All Day's Session of Association Held at Winslow.

The Chittenden county Sunday school convention, held Tuesday at the Methodist Episcopal church in Winslow, with a large attendance at all of the sessions. The following officers were elected: President, H. J. James of Shelburne; secretary, Miss Brimman, treasurer, E. W. Nash of Burlington; elementary superintendent, Mrs. W. O. Drake of Winslow; teen-agers superintendent, Mrs. C. H. Drake of Winslow; adult superintendent, George E. Cole of Burlington; home department superintendent, Miss Ada K. Talbot of Williston; teacher training superintendent, Mrs. Rachel of Williston; miscellany superintendent, Mrs. L. H. Land.

The Rev. Robert H. Wachob, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Winslow, presided at the morning session, at which the principal address was delivered by the Rev. W. A. Brown of Chicago, whose subject was "Through a World-Wide Vision." The Ladies' Aid society of the church served dinner at noon to more than one hundred guests. The reports of the county officers were received at the afternoon session, which was presided over by the Rev. C. E. Hayward, pastor of the Congregational church of Winslow. Brief addresses were made by H. A. Saxton and Miss M. E. Stickney of Barre, the Rev. C. J. Adams of Burlington, the Rev. J. P. Healer of Colchester, the Rev. E. H. Strong of Milton, the Rev. S. H. Burdick of Jericho, the Rev. N. Curtis of Williston, the Rev. S. Hamilton of St. George, the Rev. J. Stevenson of Charlotte and the Rev. E. W. Hemenway of Hinesburg.

A pleasing feature of the evening session was the excellent singing of a number of songs chosen by the ladies' aid society. Musical selections. The Rev. C. A. Boyd of Burlington, secretary of the Vermont Sunday school association, delivered an address on "The Efficient Sunday School" and the Rev. Dr. Brown spoke on "The Strategy of Youth." There was a large attendance at the supper, which was also served by the Ladies' Aid society of the church.

NEW OWNERS.

E. C. Brown and A. F. Finnegan Buy City Drug Store.

Edward C. Brown of this city and Arthur F. Finnegan of Winslow, purchased Monday from the C. Rochester the City Drug store at 91 Church street, which has been conducted by the latter for the past four years. Mr. Brown is a well-known Burlington young man, who, since his graduation from the Burlington high school in 1909, has been closely identified with the retail drug business, having been a clerk in the Park drug store, formerly conducted by W. F. Henderson, for four years, and for the last three years in the City Drug store. Mr. Finnegan also has a large number of friends in Burlington, where he attended the University of Vermont. He has had considerable experience in the drug business, having been a clerk in the drug store of Patrick McGreevey and J. L. Shanley in Winslow. The new proprietors will endeavor to maintain in the future the same high standard of business dealing that has marked the conduct of the store in the past. Mr. Rochester's plans for the future are as yet uncertain.

FRANKLIN-MEDLAR.

Wedding at Cathedral, Followed by Breakfast at Bride's Home.

The marriage of Charles E. Franklin of 94 Federal avenue and Ellen Gertrude Medlar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Medlar of 3 Spring street, was celebrated Tuesday morning at eight o'clock at St. Mary's Cathedral by the Rev. Joseph E. Ellis. Bride and groom were attended by William A. Curtis and Ed. May Vetter. The bride wore a blue tulle wedding suit and large black hat, carrying a bouquet of white carnations. Her bridesmaid also wore a blue suit and black hat, and carried pink carnations.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents for the immediate family and a group of friends. There were many beautiful wedding gifts and Mrs. Franklin left for a short wedding trip, after which they will live at 257 Elmwood avenue. Mr. Franklin is an electrician, employed by the Burlington Light and Power company. The bride was an employee of the Burlington Steam Laundry. Mrs. Eugene Tracy from Boston was here to attend the ceremony.

IT SEEMED RIGHT TO HER.

"Did you enjoy the wedding ceremony?" asked the friend of the family of the very young lady who had served as flower girl.

"Yes, indeed," replied the very young bride, "that part where the minister asked me if I would have Aunt Gladys to be his awful wife, and he said he'd be 'Richmond Times-Dispatch'."

Irish rebels who participated in Dublin uprising will be granted amnesty if they enlist in the British army.

Lightning Bolt Strikes Colburn House at Mount Holly—Occupants Stunned, but Escape Unhurt.

During the first electrical storm of the season Sunday lightning played queer pranks at Mount Holly and did hundreds of dollars' damage at the home of G. L. Colburn, two bolts striking the house. The occupants escaped unhurt, but all were stunned. The first bolt entered the top of the chimney and made its appearance in a chamber by leaving the stovepipe at a fee. From the chamber the bolt passed downward to the living room where it demolished a gasoline lamp which stood on a table, tore pipes and carpets into shreds and splattered the floor, leaving the room by way of the telephone wires, which were broken by the current.

The second, and most severe, bolt struck a tree west of the Colburn home and jumped to the house, completely burning away the northeast corner of the building. The bolt followed a cross sill in the cellar for about 10 feet, when it divided and tore up carpets and floors in two bedrooms on the first floor.

In one of the sleeping rooms a bedstead and bureau were broken, a baseboard torn away from the wall, the pipes in the ceiling stripped off and in some places the bath and plaster torn away. The lightning passed from the bedroom to the parlor where a strip of carpet was ripped off the floor and articles of furniture thrown about the room. One of the sills of the house was shattered and four or five of the floor timbers were broken. The bolt left the house at the same corner it entered. Mrs. Colburn and guest were in the living room a few moments before the house was struck and were in the kitchen when the first bolt entered the house. They were going to the dining-room to learn the extent of the damage and had just entered the room when the second bolt struck the house.

SEA BEAT STARTLES NIMRODS.

J. M. Ayres, Bennington health officer, and Richard E. Benson, assistant treasurer of the Bennington County Savings bank, were put to rout the other day by Mamma Bruin, who was not in a peaceful mood and who made the busy hunters retreat for safety. They started out to pass the night at Camp Killdeer in the Dunville notch, but they didn't do it. They heard the crying of two animals, which they later learned were cubs. Mr. Ayres threw a stone in the direction of the noise and throughout the she bear stopped forth into the road, looking, said one of the men, as big as a hippopotamus in the darkness of the night. The men retreated to a farmhouse and the morning returned to find the ground torn up where the she bear had vented her wrath.

PROSPERITY IN BELLOW'S FALLS.

The European war has brought the weekly payroll of one concern at Bellow's Falls up to $200. Six hundred men are employed for the Vermont Farm Machine company and the majority live at work on alternate shifts to be used by the Russian army. The company has about completed work on a $50,000 contract and has received another order which will keep the plant busy day and night as long as the war lasts.

PYTHIAN SISTERS' CONVENTION.

The sixth district convention and school of instruction of the Pythian Sisters of Vermont was held at St. Johnsbury Monday. Large delegations attended from the five temples in the district, which include St. Johnsbury, Orleans, Lyndonville, North Troy and Danville.

THROWN FROM STREET CAR.

Nelson Desire of Brandon had a narrow escape from serious injury when thrown from a street car in Rutland. He was standing in the vestibule at the rear when a sudden jolt threw him to the pavement and as the car was moving rapidly he was badly shaken up.

VERMONT PRIVITIES.

Rutland is undergoing "clean-up" week. There is to have "clean-up" day on Saturday.

OWNED CAR A DAY.

Then It Went Up in Smoke and Man Was Burned.

Giles Bombard, proprietor of the Bombard Brewery at Saranac Lake, N. Y., was severely injured, possibly by an explosion of gasoline while at work on a second-hand automobile for which he had traded a horse and wagon the day before in Lake Placid.

Bombard was working about the machine with brush and varnish can when, striking a live spark plug, varnish, gasoline and Mr. Bombard himself burst into flames.

His wife, seeing the flames from the rear of the kitchen, seized a blanket and rushed to the blinded man's rescue. Wrapping the robe about him she smothered the flames, pushing her husband to safety outside.

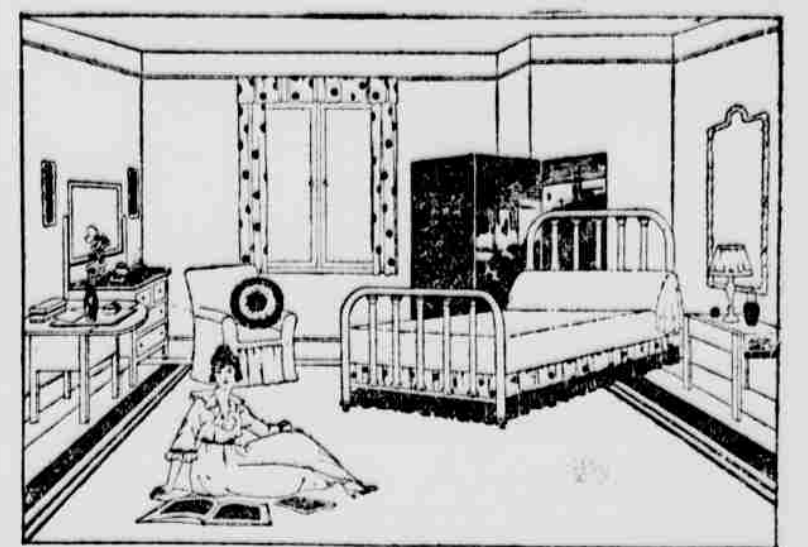

Due to a defect in the fire alarm system, the alarm was delayed, the siren and contents were a total loss and the house injured. Mr. Bombard was badly burned, but his wife escaped harm. All that is left of the automobile transaction is the horse and wagon left with the Williams Automobile company in Lake Placid.

A SURE THING.

Tommy had a cold in his head, which confined him to the house, so he was allowed to invite his young friend, Jack, to tea. Afterwards the two small boys commenced playing hide-and-seek, and Tommy rushed into the dining room and asked his father to conceal him. This father did behind a big architrave. Presently came Jack, and instead of being hiding his head, he only threw himself down on the rug before the fire.

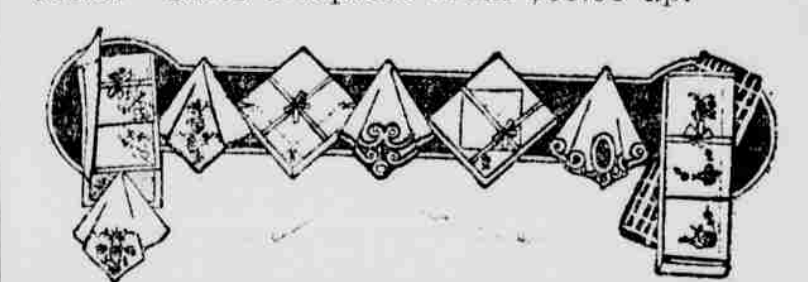

"Come, Jack," said Tommy's father, "aren't you going to look?" "No fear!" was the small boy's calm reply. "I'm waiting till he sniffs!"—Answers.
